By George Worthington 1894

Nicholas Worthington and certain of his descendants.

Compiled and published by Lewis Nicholas Worthington, London 1891, Page 4, - "Nicholas Worthington was the first and perhaps the only person of the name who came to New England. He died Sept. 6, 1683 --- "

Nicholas Worthington married a Susanna ----- (2nd wife) and among their children was Lieutenant John Worthington, born Aug. 17, 1679, at Springfield, Mass. Died Dec. 30, 1744. He married Mary Pratt (Born May 24, 1677) daughter of John Pratt and wife Mary Andrews of Saybrook, Conn. Lieutenant John Worthington received from the English government a large tract of land, part of which is included in the City of Springfield. The first street laid out in Springfield was called "Worthington Street". The land descended by right of the English law of entail to the eldest son, John, who, leaving no sons, it passed to his daughters.

Among Lieutenant John Worthington's children was Samuel, born July 11, 1725 at Springfield. Samuel's son, Samuel Jr., was born Dec. 29, 1749 at Springfield, Mass. Samuel, Jr. married three times.
He lived at Salem, N. Y. Among children by his first wife, Olive Dewey, was: John Worthington, born Jan. 20, 1771.

John Worthington (great grandson of Lt. John Worthington of Springfield) was born (1766 or 1771). He died April 18, 1855, and left nine children. He married Priscilla Smith (born 1776). They lived at Freedom, N. Y. (Freedom is eight miles from Rushford, N. Y.)
Their nine children were: Thaddeus, Olive, Samuel, John, Rebecca, Squire
