Arthur Capen, above, signs the guest book at the Capen-Riverside School House, shown below, which was dedicated in Worthington on Saturday. Capen was a student at the school in 1837 and a teacher in 1920. He had also served as the town's librarian for more than 50 years, until he resigned in February.

Inside the schoolhouse, there was a quilt display and refreshments were served. An unusual feature of the building is its vaulted ceiling.
