

Herein lies a document of my interaction with the townspeople of Worthington.

Invisibly rests the sentiment which accompanies my perceptions.

Those persons photographed are nameless; their characters rise inimitably from their images, frozen in time for as long as they can last.